Key Insights

- Total sales reached 2.30M with a profit of 286K and an overall margin of 12.47%, indicating healthy business performance.
- Sales show an overall upward trend across years, with noticeable peaks in late periods, suggesting growing demand and possible seasonality.
- The West region generates the highest sales and profit, while Central and South regions lag behind in profitability.
- South region shows the highest return rate, indicating potential issues in product quality, logistics, or customer satisfaction.
- A small number of products contribute disproportionately to total profit, with top products significantly outperforming others.
- Several products operate at negative margins, highlighting pricing or cost management problems.
- Technology and Office Supplies drive strong revenue, while some sub-categories underperform.
- Customer base is heavily dominated by repeat customers (~98%), indicating strong retention but limited new customer acquisition.
- Consumer segment contributes the largest share of revenue compared to Corporate and Home Office.
- High variation exists between customers in CLV and RFM metrics, showing opportunities for targeted segmentation and personalized marketing.

Business Recommendation

- Focus marketing and inventory investment on the West region while developing targeted growth strategies for underperforming regions.
- Investigate high return rates in the South region and improve logistics, packaging, or supplier quality control.
- Re-evaluate pricing and supplier costs for loss-making products; consider bundling, repositioning, or discontinuation.
- Promote top-performing high-margin products through campaigns and cross-selling strategies.
- Implement customer acquisition campaigns to balance the heavy reliance on repeat customers.
- Develop segment-based marketing strategies, prioritizing the high-revenue Consumer segment.
- Use CLV and RFM insights to design loyalty programs and targeted retention initiatives.
- Optimize category-level inventory planning by prioritizing high-demand and high-margin segments.
- Continue monitoring seasonal trends to align marketing, staffing, and supply chain planning.
